With reference to the above-mentioned case, and pursuant to our continuing obligations, the People make the following disclosures:

A review of the Sergeant's Robert Chan Central Personnel Index (CPI) revealed the following:

1. On June 2019, there was a substantiated disposition against the Sergeant for failing to "take reasonable supervisory action in that: Sergeant Chan failed to notify the investigating supervisor or question the circumstances that led to the injuries of members of the service returning from hospital treatment and reporting line of duty sick during his tour; [the Sergeant] directed non-supervisory members of service to complete supervisory paperwork, caused overtime to be accrued, failed to properly file a complaint and notify the duty captain, failed to make proper notifications regarding the injury, failed to ensure the arrest of someone who was already in custody, and caused a case to be opened in the detective squad." As a result, the Sergeant forfeited four vacation days.

A review of the officer's CCRB history revealed the following:

1. On December 5, 2018 Sergeant Chan has a substantiated CCRB claim for abuse-entry of premises and abuse-search of premises for which he received formalized training.

The People reserve the right to move in limine to preclude reference to this information, or otherwise to object to its use or introduction into evidence during trial.
