Case Summary

On April 14, 2011, § 87(2)(b) called the IAB command center to file a complaint (log # 11-16911) that was received by the CCRB on April 19, 2011. On April 9, 2011, at approximately 10:00 p.m., § 87(2)(b) was waiting for a cab on the corner of Albany Avenue and St. Johns Place in Brooklyn when a marked car passed him and then made a U-turn. Two officers, PO David Lamarre and PO Constantin Angelopoulos, approached § 87(2)(b) and asked what he was doing on the corner (Allegations A-B). § 87(2)(b) replied that he was waiting for a cab, and the officers told him that he could not wait for a cab on the corner. As the officers were leaving, PO Lamarre stated, "What a dick head" (Allegation C). § 87(2)(b) replied, "Why don't you get the hell out of here," and PO Lamarre asked for his ID. PO Constantin stated, "All of this because you're being a jerk." PO Lamarre gave § 87(2)(b) a summons.

On April 20, 2011, a phone call was made to the number listed for § 87(2)(b) in the IAB log. The phone rang with no answer and no voicemail until the call disconnected. All subsequent calls had the same result and no messages could be left for § 87(2)(b). A letter was sent to § 87(2)(b) on April 20, 2011 and was never returned. Searches of Cole's Directory and Lexis Nexis found only the phone number provided in the IAB log. Searches of White Pages and the Department of Correction Inmate Lookup Service yielded no results. Because Lexis Nexis listed the name as § 87(2)(b) the DOC and White Pages searches were redone with the names switched. However, no new contact information was found. A second letter was sent to § 87(2)(b) on April 25, 2011, but was not returned.

§ 87(2)(b), § 87(2)(g)
