With reference to the above-mentioned case, and pursuant to our continuing obligations, the People make the following disclosure: during a recent hearing preparation, Police Officer Scott Samarisi indicated that during the time he has been employed by the New York City Police Department, he was named as a defendant or co-defendant in federal civil lawsuits.

As a result of the conversation with Officer Samarisi, the People performed a simple name search of the Public Access to Court Electronic Records ["PACER"] website, and found the following cases which list "Scott Samarisi" and "City of New York" as civil defendants in the Eastern and Southern Districts of New York:

1. Colon & McFarland v. City of New York, 12CV0720(FB)(RER): settled for $30,000 as to plaintiff Colon and $6,500 and the action was dismissed with prejudice and without admission of fault or liability. It appears that any sum paid to the plaintiff as a result of the settlement was paid solely by the City of New York, without personal contribution from Officer Samarisi.
2. Mohammad v. City of New York, 12CV2669(ENV)(MDG): settled in 2014 for an undisclosed amount, with stipulation of settlement filed ending litigation and without admission of fault or liability.

Additionally, Officer Samarisi indicated that a number of years ago following an Internal Affairs Bureau investigation he received a finding of discourtesy in social media. As a result of the finding, Officer Samarisi lost three vacation days. $4

Moreover, Officer Samarisi had been the subject of an Internal Affairs Bureau investigation, stemming from when a prisoner's money was unaccounted for following an arrest. Officer
