Case Summary

On October 1, 2013, one call was placed and one letter was mailed to § 87(2)(b) s voicemail was full at the time of the call, so the undersigned investigator did not leave a voice message. The letter was mailed to the address § 87(2)(b) provided when she filed the complaint. On October 3, 2013, the investigator missed three calls from § 87(2)(b) did not leave a voice message any of the times she called. On October 9, 2013, the investigator called § 87(2)(b) but was not able to leave a message because § 87(2)(b) s voicemail was still full. Later that day, § 87(2)(b) called back and provided a statement. At the time of that call, § 87(2)(b) indicated that she receives mail at her lawyer's office, and all future mail correspondence should be directed there. It appears § 87(2)(b) may be homeless as she did not know the zip code to the first address she provided, receives her mail at a place of business, and spoke of needing to go to her storage unit to access correspondence from a previous CCRB complaint she made. § 87(2)(b) was scheduled for an interview at the CCRB on October 17, 2013, an appointment she later missed. On October 18, 2013, the investigator sent § 87(2)(b) a missed appointment letter at her lawyer's address. On October 21, 2013, the investigator called § 87(2)(b) and left a detailed message. § 87(2)(b) returned the investigator's call that same day and rescheduled her interview for October 25, 2013. § 87(2)(b) missed her second appointment. On October 25, 2013, a search of the New York City Department of Correction Inmate Look-up Service website confirmed that § 87(2)(b) was not incarcerated.

To date, § 87(2)(b) has not contacted the CCRB to pursue her complaint.
