With reference to the above-mentioned case, and pursuant to our continuing obligations, the People make the following disclosures:

The People are aware that during the time he has been employed by the New York City Police Department, Sergeant Eric Travieso has been named as a defendant or co-defendant in a federal civil lawsuit.

1. Levy v. City of New York, et al., 10-cv-05295 – filed in the Eastern District of New York and settled for $4,000 in 2013, without any admission of fault or liability by the defendants.

In the case that settled, a stipulation of settlement and order of dismissal with prejudice was filed with the respective court, indicating, in sum and substance, that nothing in the settlement shall be construed as an admission or concession of liability by any of the defendants or the City of New York regarding any of the allegations made by the plaintiffs in their complaints, or that any of the plaintiffs' rights under the Federal or New York Constitutions or Statutes had been violated.

A review of the officer's Central Personnel Index (CPI) revealed the following:

1. On December 16, 2011, Sergeant Eric Travieso had a substantiated departmental investigation for failing to bring a copy of a summons and his memo book to a Traffic Violations Bureau court appearance, for failing to make a complete memo book entry, and for a violation department rules. He received a Schedule B Command Discipline.
