With reference to the above-mentioned case, and pursuant to our continuing obligations, the People make the following disclosure: during a recent trial preparation, Police Officer Lesley Thevenot of the 123 Precinct indicated that during the time he has been employed by the New York City Police Department, he was the subject of an Internal Affairs Bureau investigation where Officer Thevenot had his NYPD placard displayed on his windshield of his personal vehicle while he was parked on a New York City street while he was off duty approximately five years ago. As a result of this event, Officer Thevenot received discipline from the New York City Police Department in the form of Precinct Level Admonishment. No other disciplinary actions were taken.

In addition, the People performed a simple name search of the Public Access to Court Electronic Records ["PACER"] website, and found the following results which listed the above mentioned officer as a civil defendant:

- 1) Lamendula v. City of New York: 1:13-cv-07006-FB-RML: Sued for false arrest and use of force. The case was dismissed and settled without admission of wrongdoing.
