Synopsis

On March 2, 2007, § 87(2)(b) saw his friend, "§ 87(2)(b)" across 8th Street in Manhattan. § 87(2)(b) pulled out black boots he had just purchased on 14th Street and showed them to his friend. At that point, Lieutenant Robert Corcoran yelled, "Yo grease ball." § 87(2)(b) ignored the officer and walked in the opposite direction of the officer. Lieutenant Corcoran yelled out again, "Yo motherfucking grease ball, come here!" § 87(2)(b) stopped and Lieutenant Corcoran, accompanied by twelve uniformed officer and three plainclothes officers approached him. Lieutenant Corcoran asked § 87(2)(b) if he had any drugs on him. § 87(2)(b) denied that he had any drugs on him but told the officer that he was carrying prescription medication. Lieutenant Corcoran and the other officer started to search § 87(2)(b)'s front and back pockets. § 87(2)(b) asked the officers to be careful around his stomach because he just had surgery. The officers grabbed his stomach and pushed him up against a wall. His wallet was taken out of his pocket and the contents were emptied onto the sidewalk. § 87(2)(b) had $120.00 dollars in one pocket and $51.00 dollars in another pocket. Lieutenant Corcoran took the $120.00 dollars from his pocket and another officer, PO1, took the rest of § 87(2)(b)'s money. Lieutenant Corcoran searched § 87(2)(b) excessively and asked him "where the fucking medication was?" § 87(2)(b) reached into his clothes to pull out the medication but as he did this, PO2 gave him a forearm across the face. § 87(2)(b) asked the officer why he struck him and the officer told him that he was not suppose to reach for anything when he is under arrest. § 87(2)(b) asked if he was under arrest. Lieutenant Corcoran pointed to PO William Glynn and told him to arrest § 87(2)(b). PO Glynn handcuffed § 87(2)(b). He and PO3 grabbed § 87(2)(b) by his neck and the back of his head threw him in the patrol vehicle. At the precinct, § 87(2)(b) learned that he was being charged with § 87(2)(b). However, the desk sergeant informed § 87(2)(b) that he would not to be brought downtown and told the arresting officer to "work something out." § 87(2)(b) was released with a desk appearance ticket.

§ 87(2)(b) also alleged that Lieutenant Corcoran stole his $120.00 dollars. § 87(2)(g)

Officers at the scene provided § 87(2)(b) with the lieutenant's name. § 87(2)(b) obtained PO Glynn from his arrest paper work.

On March 14, 2007, § 87(2)(b) provided the above-referenced phone statement. A week later on March 22, 2007, § 87(2)(b) stated that he no longer wanted to pursue this case. He preferred to consult his personal attorneys about this matter. § 87(2)(b) confirmed that no members of the NYPD or CCRB influenced him in this decision. Assistant Supervisor Alexander DeSantis reviewed the tape with the recorded statement. As of March 22, 2007 a complaint withdrawn letter was sent to § 87(2)(b). The letter will be entered in the case file upon return. § 87(2)(g).
