Case Summary

§ 87(2)(b) filed this complaint on behalf of her son, § 87(2)(b) via telephone with the Internal Affairs Bureau (IAB) on January 18, 2011. The complaint, log #11-02531, was forwarded to the Civilian Complaint Review Board (CCRB) on January 21, 2011. On January 14, 2011, at approximately 6:15 p.m., in the vicinity of Crescent Street and McKinley Avenue in Brooklyn, § 87(2)(b) was in his car, which was behind unidentified officers conducting a car stop. § 87(2)(b) asked one of the officers if he could pass but the officer replied, “Can’t you see I’m fucking working?” When the officers were finished with the motorist, they approached § 87(2)(b) and asked for his identification (Allegation A). They would later return his paperwork, asking him to leave. At this point, § 87(2)(b) asked the officers for their names and shield numbers. One of the officers told § 87(2)(b) to come to the patrol car and ask for the information but when he did so, the officers drove off, clipping § 87(2)(b)’s elbow with the side mirror. The officers never provided the information to § 87(2)(b) (Allegation B). Without an official statement from § 87(2)(b) the subject officers’ identities remain unknown. Therefore, the allegations are pleaded against “officers.”

On January 25, 2011, the CCRB contacted § 87(2)(b) who made no allegation of officers speaking to him discourteously during the incident. He added that although he was struck by the patrol car as it drove by, he was not injured and wished not to pursue that part of the complaint. § 87(2)(b) also stated that after his initial interaction with officers, he went to the 75th Precinct stationhouse to report the incident and interacted with Sgt. Barbara Fischer who he identified from her name plate. § 87(2)(b) alleged that Sgt. Fischer insisted that he be seen by the paramedics and when he refused citing the fact that he was not injured, Sgt. Fischer threatened to arrest him (Allegation C).

§ 87(2)(b) scheduled an appointment with the CCRB for February 3, 2011, but failed to show up and neither called to cancel and/or re-schedule. A missed appointment letter was mailed to § 87(2)(b) on February 3, 2011. On February 7, 2011, § 87(2)(b) scheduled a second appointment for February 17, 2011 but again he missed his appointment without calling to cancel and/or reschedule. § 87(2)(g)
