DISCLOSURES

In connection with the above person, whom the People may call as a witness, please be aware of the following:

1. The New York City Civilian Complaint Review Board is currently investigating allegations that on or about October 10, 2017, in the vicinity of 254 Waldo Place, Englewood, New Jersey, Officer Ruppert, while on duty, pointed his gun at and struck an individual without police necessity and thereafter, in the vicinity of the 26th Precinct Stationhouse, failed to secure medical treatment for that individual.
2. The New York City Police Department investigated an incident that occurred on April 4, 2018 at which four officers were present, including Mark Ruppert, tax number 954305. While the incident did not result in any discipline or prosecution for the search or for theft, the complaining witness alleged that the vehicle she was operating was searched without justification and that United States currency was missing at the conclusion of the officer's search. The complainant identified a different officer from among the four (Hector Figueroa, tax number 955915) as the person who searched the interior area of the vehicle where the money had been. One of the other officers, who she was unable to identify, searched the trunk of the vehicle. The New York Police Department determined that Mark Ruppert committed a minor procedural violation in connection with this matter, in that his memo book was not complete. The New York County District Attorney's Office (DANY) investigated the case, and an assistant district attorney and a DANY investigator interviewed the complainant and found her credible. The DANY investigation could not establish beyond a reasonable doubt, however, that a crime had occurred.
