Allegation (G) Abuse of Authority: Officers damaged § 87(2)(b) property.
During her testimony to the CCRB on February 9, 2018, $87(2)(b) alleged that after the officers had searched her home, she discovered that the leg of her couch had been damaged in a manner that caused it to lean as a result (Board Review 01). Although $87(2)(6) provided documentation of the damage to her door, she stated that she did not take any photographs to document the damage to the couch. In a follow up telephone call on February 23, 2018, she indicated that the position of the couch made it difficult to take such a photograph (Board Review 10).
position of the coden made it difficult to take such a photograph (Board Review 10).
Det. Miles stated that during the incident $87(2)(b) claimed that there was damage to the rear left leg of the couch (Board Review 04). However, Det. Miles stated that he did not observe the couch being damaged nor did he know how the couch could have been damaged during the search. No other officers informed him about damage to the couch.
search. No other officers informed fifth about damage to the couch.
Sgt. Levine denied being aware of any damage to §87(2)(b) sofa during his CCRB interview

Within an hour of officers initially leaving the apartment, $87(2)(b) stated that these same two officers returned to the residence. At the time, $87(2)(b) was with the building's porter, who was repairing the door which had been damaged by the officers' entry. The officers asked her if she had seen a flashlight in the apartment. The officers then entered the residence and searched unknown sections of the home for approximately fifteen minutes. In a subsequent telephone statement, provided additional details regarding the entry, noting that the officers entered through the opened door that was being repaired by the porter (Board Review 09). The officers did not seek consent to enter the apartment and flat not protest the officers' entry.

initial phone statement was generally consistent with her verified interview; however, only alleged that one officer searched her apartment for a flashlight in her phone statement (Board Review 02). 887(2)(b) did not respond to attempts to contact her for additional information about the officers' second entry.
On April 12, 2018, $87(2)(b) the porter who was on duty during the incident, provided a telephone statement in Spanish. $87(2)(b) stated that as he was repairing $87(2)(b) door, which was damaged prior to any officers entering the apartment, three officers approached him, told him to stop working on the door, and obtained his contact information.  After $87(2)(b) observed numerous officers enter and depart from the apartment, $87(2)(b) received a call stating that he could continue to repair the door. $87(2)(b) later witnessed two of the same officers who had initially approached him heading back towards $87(2)(b) apartment. $87(2)(b) however, denied that he was in the process of repairing the apartment door when the officers returned, and stated that he did not see them enter the apartment or know why they had returned.
The investigation also spoke to the superintendent of the building, who denied being present during the incident (Board Review 11).
Det. Miles stated that prior to the initial entry into state of the building, as well as the vestibule and elevator doors. The ensuing search returned negative results for contraband. Prior to leaving the residence, Det. Miles notified the superintendent, who repaired state of door in his presence. Approximately 20 minutes after leaving the residence, Det. Miles realized that he had left his flashlight inside state of the door. Det. Miles then returned to the apartment with another officer and knocked on the door. Det. Miles could not recall the identity of this officer or describe them aside from stating it was an officer from his precinct with whom he worked regularly. Det. Miles stated that the door was closed at the time of his return, but claimed that the superintendent was present and working to ensure that the door was functional. Det. Miles knocked on the door and when savered, he explained that he had left his flashlight in the residence and asked if he could look for it. Savered the invited him into the residence. Det. Miles then entered the residence while the other officer remained in the hallway. After looking for the flashlight in savered to his second entry into the residence. Det. Miles later found the flashlight in a bag he was carrying during the incident.
Sgt. Levine stated in his CCRB interview that prior to the initial entry, Sgt. Levine led members of ESU up to $87(2)(b) residence to point out $87(2)(b) door. Sgt. Levine had no Page 4 conversation with a porter or any building staff prior to the entry. Sgt. Levine was not accompanied by anyone except ESU, and Det. Miles was holding open the front door of the building at this time. Upon returning to his office at the 30th Precinct Stationhouse following the execution of the warrant, Det. Miles informed him that he believed he had left his flashlight at residence. Later on that date, Det. Miles informed Sgt. Levine that he had returned to the residence with another officer from the 30th Precinct, at which time he asked for and received consent to conduct a second search of the residence. Sgt. Levine was not aware of who accompanied Det. Miles on his return to structure of the residence. Sgt. Levine stated during his interview that because the search warrant had been fully executed prior to Det. Miles' return, the search warrant would "obviously" not cover the second entry.

In People v. Hodge, 44 NY2d 553 [1978], the New York Court of Appeals held that "all warrantless searches presumptively are unreasonable per se" (Board Review 15). However, in People v. Cosme, 48 NY2d 286 [1979], the Court also held that "it is well settled that the police may lawfully conduct a warrantless search when they have obtained the voluntary consent of a party who possesses the requisite degree of authority and control over the premises or personal property in question" (Board Review 14).

In People v. Smith, 239 AD2d 219 [1st Dept 1997], the Supreme Court of New York, Appellate Division, First Department ruled that implied consent could be established when "defendant engaged in a discussion with the officer from inside the apartment...complied with the officer's request for identification without hesitation and [did not raise the] lightest objection to the officer's entry or continued presence in the apartment" (Board Review 06). In People v. Davis, 120 AD2d 606 [2d Dept 1986], the Supreme Court of New York, Appellate Division, Second Department held that "stepping aside from the door to admit the officers is enough to establish consent" (Board Review 07).
