In New York Search and Seizure, Barry Kamins explains under the hot pursuit doctrine, "the police can enter a defendant's home without a warrant if they enter in 'hot pursuit' of the defendant. Under this theory, a suspect may not thwart an otherwise proper arrest, set in motion in a public place, by escaping into his residence. The Appellate Division held that the warrantless entry into the defendant's home was justified as a 'continuation of the uninterrupted pursuit of the defendant" (encl. 1a-1b) § $2(2)(3
